REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

The republican electors of the state of Wisconsin are requested to elect delegates to a state convention to be held in the capital, at Madison, Wednesday Sept. 8, 1886.

At 12 o'clock noon, for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates of the republican party for the several state offices, to be voted for at the ensuing general election in November. Each county will be entitled to delegates as follows, the representation being based upon the number of votes cast for Mr. Blaine in 1884, one delegate to each 50 votes, or major fraction of 50—each county entitled to one delegate, without reference to number of votes cast:

The headquarters of all abolitionists and such loud mouthed agitators as Robert Schuller, are in session. There is a pointer to all this.

The man—A. B. Upshaw by name—who was the agent to sell blue-electric stock, has been appointed assistant commissioner of Indian affairs at an increased salary. Verily, public office is a public trust.

Colonel Gabe Bonck says he is willing to run for governor of Wisconsin on an honest democratic platform, with a campaign conducted by the people." That turns him then from running on the democratic ticket.

After reviewing the work of congress the State Journal still thinks there is hope for the American people. We are not so sure about that. Congress does not seem to improve as the years go by. It is worse than ever and still grows worse.

There is a good deal of fuss made about Crittenden, who has been in the hands of the Mexicans for four weeks. He is not worth any attention. A man who has not the common instincts of a gentleman has no rights which the government of the United States is bound to respect.

The Philadelphia Times publishes some reliable figures as to the sales of General Grant's Memoirs, and as to Mr. Grant's share of the profits thereof. The lowest subscription price is $7.50, while the cost of manufacturing the book is only 75 cents a volume, and it costs us much more to distribute each volume. Other figures of cost are given, showing that 300,000 volumes have been sold Mrs. Grant receiving $2,100 royalty on each volume, or a total of $690,000. In addition to this, it estimates that the foreign and future sales will reach 100,000 volumes, netting Mrs. Grant at least $210,000 more, or a total of $840,000 as her share of the profits.

There are some splendid articles in the August number of the North American Review. John A. Kasson, lately minister to Germany, has an article on Bismarck. The series of religious articles by representative divines is continued by an article entitled "Why am I a Catholic?" by Father Braud, of the Society of Jesus, president of the leading Jesuit in America. It is characterized by all the trained acumen of that celebrated order. Father Braud was selected by Father Fulton, the head of the order in America as the ablest theologian to answer this question for a non-Catholic constituency. General Joe Johnston, the old antagonist of General Sherman, gives a history of the end of the confederacy in an article entitled, "My Negotiations with General Sherman." This article is a plain, unpretentious, and straightforward narrative of the negotiations that led to the surrender of the great armed force of the confederacy. In the course of it he contradicts certain statements which he attributes to the late Mr. Seward. His article is well written and clear, and the reader will find it a valuable addition to his library.

The Cincinnati Bricklayers' Union, Aug. 7.—The campaign committee of the bricklayers' union is taking active steps to secure contracts. A committee has been appointed to make bids and figures on plans. Much encouragement has been given the committee by the majority of the bricklayers visited. The committee is in full force in each locality where bricklayers propose to build, and will bring them in order, or correct new buildings or have them finished without trouble or delay by the very best of competent workmen.

The Heldenberg Coloration. Heldenberg, Aug. 7.—The economists of the university celebrated Friday included a grand historical procession symbolic of the centuries and the chief events thereof, which have contributed to the history of the world. The procession comprised 1,000 persons, and the display created unbounded enthusiasm.

Prohibition Nomination in Jersey. Newark, N. J., Aug. 7.—The Prohibitionists of the Third district of this state have nominated Courtland Z. Parker, of Terra Amata, for congress.

A WISE DECLARATION. A good many people had occasion to do fault with the vote of the directors of the Moona Lake Assembly, who defected one day last week by a vote of 21 to 16, that the institution was partisan and sectarian; or perhaps it would be more in keeping with the facts to put it in this way, that the directors, by a vote of 21 to 16, refused to do what the assembly was non-partisan and non-sectarian. Of course this ill-timed, and in fact outrageous proceeding, was condemned by hundreds of christian people throughout the state.

They did not want the Moona Lake assembly to fall to the level of a political organization, neither did they desire to see it controlled by any sectarian influence. When the country was heard from and the directors saw the wicked blunder they had made, they wisely retracted, and the following preamble and resolutions were adopted unanimously:

WHEREAS, The work of this assembly has been misinterpreted by many who have not been patrons; the board of directors hereby declare:

That the object of the assembly is the propagation of the school work, and

That in religion we are non-sectarian, and in politics we are non-partisan.

That in hiring our lecturers we are not responsible for their utterances, taking it for granted that any man or woman whose character and standing are such as to warrant them being invited to speak on our platform, can be trusted as to what they shall say.

This declaration will be mailed with delight by thousands of christian people in Wisconsin, who love the work of the Moona assembly, and did not desire to see it damaged by a lot of selfish political brutes who think more of party than they do of religion or temperance.

Well done, Moona!

NOW THE GREAT MEN ARE FALLING.

It is a fact which will strike one with some degree of surprise, that the death of Samuel J. Tilden does not leave a single ex-democratic candidate for the presidency among the living; and only two of all the presidents since the organization of the republican party thirty years ago, are living—Hayes and Arthur. Two ex-republican candidates are still living—

General Fremont, the first of republicans presidential nominees, who is now 73 years old and in good health, and Mr. Blaine, who is directing the politics of his state and will likely enter the presidential race again in 1888.

Time makes strange ravages among men of mark, and one by one they fall, and the distance between their falling is sometimes singularly short. It is remarkable that four democratic nominees for president, one ex-president and one vice president, died within a single year—Grant, Seymour, McClellan, Hancock, Tilden and Hendricks. None has dealt more kindly with the wives of the presidents, as five of them are now living—Mr. Polk, Mrs. Tyler, Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Garfield and Mrs. Hayes. They are all well provided for, as Mrs. Hayes is rich, and the four receive an annuity of $5,000 as long as they live, and congress did a wise thing in voting Mrs. Hancock an annuity of $2,000 for life.

Ex-President Buchanan, who made the first battle for the democracy against the republican party when Fremont was its leader, died soon after the war. Breckinridge, who was the vice-president, and became a conspicuous general in the confederate army, died in 1875; and Dayton, who was on the republican ticket with Fremont, died in Paris in 1864 while minister to France. Hamlin, who was on the ticket with Lincoln in 1860 and should have been renominated in 1864, is still living at the age of 77 in good health, and has not worn an overcoat in twenty-five years. Johnson, who was nominated for vice president in 1861 with Lincoln, died in 1875, and after he was president served a short term in the senate. Pendleton, who was on the ticket with McClellan in 1864, was now minister to Germany, being the only surviving leader in the great movement of that year. All the competitors of 1860—Lincoln and Hamlin, Breckinridge and Lane, Bell and Everett, Douglass, and Johnson—have passed away except Hamlin.

Coming down to more recent time we find that all the candidates of 1868 are dead; and likewise the candidates of 1872, forty-one of them, have crossed the bridge that spans the distance between time and eternity. The republican leaders of 1876 are still living, but both the democratic leaders are dead—Tilden and Hendricks, Garfield and Hancock, the leaders of 1880 are dead, but those nominated for the second place on the tickets are living—Arthur highly honored by the american people for his strong manhood and his rare accomplishments as a gentleman, and English, of Indiana, who survives as a bright star in democratic dreams. Already four of the candidates of 1884 have crossed the divide—Hendricks, who very early descended from the vice president's chair to the grave.

It will be seen from this brief review of notable deaths that the promise of life is a very slender substructure on which to build expectations of longevity. But few exceptions those whom we have mentioned as having been party leaders died in the prime of life. Excepting Tilden and Seymour and Hendricks none of the leaders had reached the age of sixty-five, and the latter was only sixty-six. Poor Greeley carried his load of sorrow and disappointment to the grave at only sixty-one, and the other leaders when they fell in the race of life, were from fifty to sixty-three. Many of them, including Henry Wilson, McClellan, Hancock, Hendricks, Johnson, Colfax and Tilden, died suddenly. These facts bring to mind the saying of Horace Greeley, which every one should remember, "Popularity is but an accident to man; virtue, less so." Their administration or exclusion is, therefore, left to the discretion of the brokers of the order in America.

The Work of Filling Offices. Washington, Aug. 7.—On the third week ago T. A. Polk, William C. Morris, George McConkie, W. C. Morrison, William C. Nicol, and Fleming McConkie, all young men and members of prominent families, started on a yachting cruise, and not having been heard from since July 21 a tug was sent in search of them. Tuesday morning the tug returned with the bodies of the first three above named, by the sea.

The Color Line in the Forests. London, Aug. 7.—The high court of the Royal Foresters, sitting at Luton, has finally disposed of the question of admitting colored men to the corps. It has been decided by the high court in America for decision. By unanimous resolution the high court has ruled that it is not desirable to introduce to the principles of the order before colored men, and that it is undesirable to submit the subject to the subsidiary high court in America. The court has ruled that the color line is not desirable to enforce as a rule, and that it is not wise to enforce a rule compelling their admission. Their admission or exclusion is, therefore, left to the discretion of the brokers of the order in America.

MURDEROUS MONDRAGON.

THE MEXICAN MISCREANT GUILTY OF ANOTHER FOUL MURDER.

One More American Citizen Shot Like a Dog—Opinion in Mexico City in Favor of Putting Him at the End of a Rope—Cutting Convicted and a Pardon Pending.

Dr. J. R. Rice, Aug. 7.—An American citizen of this city, who was condemned to death a few months ago under circumstances very similar to the Faure case, Juan Gutiérrez was a Mexican by birth, who has lived almost all his life on the American side of the river. He settled in Del Rio, married, good son, naturalized in 1870, and did his first Texas voting there. He was always known as a citizen

DR. PRICE'S CREAM

BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

The Cream of Tartar used in DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER is the purest in the world. The crystals are from the finest Grapes, imported direct from the vineyards of France.

Washington, D. C., April 23, 1885.

I have analyzed the Cream of Tartar used in Dr. Price's Baking Powder, and find it of the highest degree of purity.

PETER COLLIER, Chief Chemist for the United States Department of Agriculture.

The following Heads of the Great Universities and Public Food Analysts, find Dr. Price's the purest and strongest. Free from Ammonia, free from Lime, free from Alum, and recommend its use in every family.

Wanted. If you have a fine residence that you will sell, come and see me as I have a few cash customers wishing to buy.

D. CONGER.

A correct 50 cent shirt, the "New Famous." It exceeds all others. Its good points are: Triple linen bosom, triple linen cuffs, reinforced back and front, made with yoke, French seams and gussets, extra wide facing at arm holes, good length, good quality, superior stitching and perfect fitting which is its great feature. In fact an ideal shirt; none recognized as its peer. One trial will convince the most skeptical that the "New Famous" possesses all of the merits that we claim for it. We are sole agents for J. M. Bostwick & Sons.

Best Kansas apples, $1 per bushel at W. T. VANKIRK'S.

A fine residence, nearly new, surrounded by ten acres of grove and lawn, with new basement barn, laundry and nearly every desirable convenience, and on projected street car line, is offered at a very low price. This bargain cannot be duplicated.

C. E. Bowles.

—East Milwaukee street, between Main and Bluff streets, is being put in condition for the passage of teams.

—Secretary Babbitt, of the State Agricultural society, is distributing a very neat programme of the state fair races.

—Yesterday afternoon Judge Bennett gave a decision for the plaintiff in the suit of Mrs. Maria Kelly against the H. B. Strong estate of Beloit.

—A number of Janesville people will spend Sunday at the Lake Monona Assembly, and hear the address by the Rev. Do Witt Tellmire, of New York.

—The reports coming in of the damage by the hail storm of yesterday afternoon affects a good many people, who were placing much dependence upon the growing crop.

—The handsomest display of California grapes and other fruit that has been seen in the market this season was made by J. A. Denniston, on west Milwaukee street to-day.

—There were a good many exaggerated stories circulated upon the streets last evening, regarding the damage to the growing tobacco by the hail storm during the afternoon.

—Rev. H. A. Minor, of Madison, will preach at the Congregational church tomorrow morning. There will be no services in the evening, at that church, but union services will be held at Court Street church.

—That innocent paper, the Buffalo Express, says: "The way their picnic band and ice cream are turning against them, must be very disheartening to temperance societies which want to continue to point out the fatal effects of rum."

—Water Commissioner Denniston has exhibited a picture of the Santa Fe, New Mexico, water plant in operation. The system is simple and economical and should be seen to be appreciated. As it borders on the line of direct pressure the board will doubtless adopt some of its features.

—Last evening the Fort Howard council adopted a report recommending that the city establish a water works system and take the supply from the large plant now being put in at Green Bay. It is reported that an ordinance to that effect will be adopted at a meeting to be held August 16.

—The electric street railway at Appleton has been completed. Yesterday the first trial of running a car by an electric motor occurred. The motive apparatus worked excellently. It is estimated that the load on one trip was ten tons, yet the power was perfectly adequate. It is expected to have the lines in complete operation next week.

—William and Wentworth Dillon, the two boys arrested by Constable Ryan for taking a boat belonging to Fred Anderson, come up before the municipal court yesterday afternoon. Their story that the boat was borrowed from a young man who claimed to be the owner, was accepted by Judge Paton and they were granted until Monday to put the craft in the place where it belonged.

—It is certainly wonderful the sale Alorix is having. Heimstreet, the Janesville agent, informs us he has already sold 67 bottles and received this morning 12 dozen more. It is not a medicine, yet is one of the best tonics known, is pleasant to drink and sells for only 50 cents for a quart bottle. We predict that every home will have its Alorix as regular as bootees.

—A short time ago Mr. John Carpenter bought eighty hogs from R. J. Rooney, in this city, and took them to feed for the winter market. A few days after he got them, they began to show signs of sickness, and on Friday of last week they began to die. Since then thirty-seven of them have fallen victims to the disease, and ten more are not expected to live. The sickness resembles hog cholera, except that the animals have a good appetite almost up to their death. Mr. Rooney says that they were shipped to Chicago from Minnesota, and were sold to him by parties in that city.

—It is probable that other parts of the state received a visitation as well as Alorix, at about the same time. Tobacco was badly cut in many places and corn was also damaged, but even should it prove as severe as the one to the country the effect upon the crops of the southern part of the state will hardly be appreciable. While the tobacco that was cut in many instances above the average, yet the quantity was not enough to make any great difference, notwithstanding the statements of some dealers who claim that "the entire crop has been utterly ruined." The worst of it is that no hail insurance has been done this year and therefore none of the losses are covered. Some of the fields that were in the storm's track will be replanted to turnips and other quick growing crops, so the loss will not be so serious.

THE HAIL STORM.

The Towns of Rock, Janesville, Center, Fulton and Porter,

Visited by a Severe Hail Storm Yesterday Afternoon.
